PROGRAM

Political Economy (PE) examines the relationship between politics and economics in modern societies and focuses on problems of both domestic and international policy. Based on the assumption that political-economic relationships are affected by any number of factors, such as society, culture, geography, and demographics, the curriculum is both multi- and interdisciplinary in scope. The focus of the major is on contemporary issues, although a strong historical perspective is also emphasized. Students may also study planning and problem solving, environmental issues, resource distribution, and the challenges of institutional adaptation, and changing political systems.

The major is designed to provide a broad-based liberal arts background, as well as the intellectual skills appropriate for careers in either the public or private sector. Additionally, the major offers an excellent background for students planning postgraduate careers in social science disciplines and professional schools.

Some of the questions addressed in the major include:

- the tension between rising consumer demand and the need to minimize resource depletion and pollution;
- the different priorities served by capitalist, socialist, and traditionalist varieties of political economy;
- the different priorities served by democratic and authoritarian political systems;
- how international interdependence may undermine the efforts of national governments to cope with unemployment, inflation, trade and payment deficits, health, housing and welfare problems, and other societal issues.
- the importance of organizational structures for policy-making in both the public and private sector.

REQUIREMENTS

Political Economy Major Requirements

- Completion of GLOBAL 45/POLECON C45 with a grade of B- or better and ECON 1 or 2 with a grade of C or better are required to declare the PE major. NOTE: Berkeley's ECON 1 and 2 cover macro-economics and micro-economics. GLOBAL 45/POLECON C45 is offered during the summer, fall, and spring semesters on the Berkeley campus only.

- All PE majors must be able to demonstrate proficiency in a modern language other than English equivalent to four college- level semesters (or two years). There are several ways to fulfill the language requirement:

Advanced Placement exam: A score of 5 on the AP Language (not Literature) exam.

Proficiency test: Proficiency tests are available to students with native language proficiency in many, but not all, languages. Students who intend to fulfill the language requirement by passing a proficiency test should speak with a PE advisor as soon as possible to ensure that proficiency tests are offered in their language.

Students with native, advanced background or those who were educated in a non-English language through the completion of high school or the equivalent may wish to satisfy this requirement with that experience. This requires a language proficiency exam.

Course-work: Students who cannot fulfill the language requirement using one of the above methods should take as many semesters of foreign language as possible before transferring. NOTE: High school language course credit does not satisfy the foreign language requirement.

Advanced Placement (AP) exams can satisfy the following requirements for the PE major:

- Economics AP: a score of 4 or 5 on BOTH the Macro AND Micro exams satisfies UCB ECON 1.
- Statistics AP: a score of 3 satisfies the Statistics requirement for the PE major.
- Foreign Language (not Literature) AP: a score of 5 satisfies the four-semester foreign language requirement.

After Enrolling at UC Berkeley

- must have a cumulative UC Berkeley GPA of 2.7 or higher

AND

- must have completed GLOBAL 45/POLECON C45 with a grade of B- or higher on the 1st attempt

Students who do not earn a B- or higher in GLOBAL 45/POLECON C45 in their 1st attempt will not be eligible to declare the Political Economy major, regardless of the semester in which GLOBAL 45/POLECON C45 was taken.
